

How to Lower Your Rent and Boost Your SNAP Benefits

An Advocacy Tool for Elder and Disabled
Public Housing Tenants in Massachusetts

* October 2018 *

MLRI
Massachusetts Law Reform Institute

Why Use this Kit?

This advocacy tool explains how tenants in public, subsidized and voucher housing can lower their rent and maximize their SNAP (Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program) benefits.

In July of 2018, the Department of Transitional Assistance (DTA) issued guidance to help low income older adults and persons with disabilities use their housing rent calculation information to boost their SNAP benefits. DTA now accept the “rent computation worksheet” for SNAP if it identifies an amount claimed for medical expenses for rent. In August of 2018, the Department of Housing and Community Development (DHCD) notified all housing agencies of this DTA SNAP policy guidance.

This booklet is available on both www.MassLegalHelp.org and www.MassLegalServices.org. Please distribute it freely to tenants and organizations working with tenants.

Calculating Your Rent

Public and subsidized housing in Massachusetts is typically administered by housing authorities or owners of subsidized developments. There are many types of vouchers and subsidies, both federal and state-funded. Because public and subsidized housing has capped funding, there are often wait-lists to qualify.

Public and Subsidized Housing Rent Calculations

1. How is My Rent Calculated?

The amount you are required to pay in rent is based on your countable earned or unearned income and the allowable expenses or deductions. Most tenants pay about 30% of their annual net income as their rent obligation.

2. What is a rent computation worksheet and why do I need it?

A “rent computation worksheet” is a document created by your housing agency that shows what income and deductions were used to calculate what you owe in rent. You can find examples of rent computation worksheets in the Appendix.

The rent computation worksheet is useful in two ways:

#1. You can see if the housing agency calculated your rent correctly, and ask them to review it if you think they made a mistake.	#2. You may be able to use this worksheet to report your medical costs to DTA and boost your SNAP benefits. (See more below)

3. Do I have a right to my rent computation worksheet?

YES! All public and subsidized housing tenants have a right to get a copy of your housing documents – including their rent computation worksheet. Contact your housing agency directly for a copy. You may need to ask in writing.

If the housing agency or manager refuses to give you a copy of your rent computation worksheet, ask to speak with a supervisor or the executive director. If you are still denied access, you can request a written explanation or request a grievance hearing. (See Question 6 below).

Lowering Your Rent with Medical Expenses

4. What medical expenses can I claim to lower my rent?

You can claim medical expenses as an income deduction for your rent if you are age 62 or older (for federal housing), or you are disabled. You can claim unreimbursed medical expenses if they exceed 3% of your gross annual income.

Example: James receives $1,200 per month in Social Security income, which is $14,400 each year. James can claim the medical expenses that exceed 3% of his annual income – over $432 per year. Claiming unreimbursed medical expenses he incurs that exceed the 3% threshold can help lower his rent.*

You will need to show the housing agency that you have already paid or you owe the medical expenses. You can also claim medical expenses of a spouse or child living with you, even if that person is neither elder nor disabled.

You cannot claim medical expenses that will be reimbursed by a third party.

You can claim health insurance co-pays and premiums, the costs of doctor and hospital visits, physical therapy, lab work, acupuncture, prescription medication, home health aides and more. A list of acceptable medical expenses for housing can be found in the Appendix

5. When can I submit medical expenses to my LHA or housing agency?

You can submit proof of medical expenses to your housing authority when you apply for housing and during your annual tenant recertification. Be sure to keep a copy of the documents you give to the housing agency.

State and federal rules also allow elderly and disabled tenants to do so at other times.

If you have a state-aided housing subsidy, you can request an interim redetermination of your rent if you are also reporting a decrease in your monthly gross income.

If you have a federal housing subsidy, you can request an interim recertification if you are reporting any changes in your monthly income or expenses that may affect your rent. You can also request a rent review if you or a member of your household turns age 62, or was recently determined disabled.

6. How do I show I am a tenant with disabilities?

To qualify as disabled, you need to receive Social Security or Supplemental Security Income (SSI) based on disability, or you need to have other proof of a disability that meets the housing rules. The housing agency should tell you what proofs are needed.

Getting Rent Calculations Fixed

7. If I gave the LHA or housing agency proof of medical expenses, but my rent did not go down, what can I do?

If you think the housing agency did not calculate your rent correctly, you can request an informal meeting with your manager. You can also have a trusted friend, relative, community agency or other third-party help you. Any third party that helps you will need your written consent to talk with your housing agency about your housing case information. See Appendix G.

If an informal meeting with your housing agency is not satisfactory, you can file a grievance. Most housing agencies have written grievance procedures. Ask your housing agency for a copy of your grievance procedure. Often the grievance procedure is spelled out in your lease.

When housing agency makes a decision about the amount of your rent, they should give you a copy of your right to file a grievance. Make sure that you file a grievance by the deadline on the notice and in the way described in the notice. Otherwise, you may lose your right to a grievance.

Most housing authorities or housing agencies have a standard grievance form that you can use to request a grievance hearing. If your housing agency doesn't have one, you can write your own letter. More information on the grievance process is below.

Federal and state rules governing how public and subsidized rent is calculated:

- 24 C.F.R. §5.403, §5.611; 24 C.F.R §960.259, §982 (C.F.R. is the Code of Federal Regulations)
- 760 C.M.R §6.05, 760 C.M.R §49.05 (C.M.R. is the Code of Massachusetts Regulations)

Calculating Your SNAP

SNAP is the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program, formerly called food stamps. Administered by the Department of Transitional Assistance (DTA), SNAP is a 100% federally-funded benefit available to all low income households that meet the eligibility rules.

SNAP Nutrition Benefits Calculation

8. How are SNAP benefits calculated?

The amount you get in monthly SNAP benefits is based on your countable income, certain income deductions and your household size. The maximum monthly SNAP benefit amounts for households of 1 to 4 persons are listed below (higher amounts for larger households):

Household size	Max SNAP
1	$192
2	$353
3	$505
4	$642

In general, most SNAP households are expected to use 30% of their net income toward food costs. For every $3 of net countable income, the maximum SNAP benefit for your household is lowered by $1.

Example: Sally lives alone, gets $1,000 in a pension. She has $300 in net countable income after allowable deductions. DTA counts $100 toward the maximum SNAP benefit of $192 for 1 person. Sally qualifies for $92/month SNAP.

NOTE: If you are receiving the maximum SNAP monthly benefits (listed in chart above), you do not need to submit proof of medical expenses to DTA. Your SNAP benefits will not increase above the maximum monthly level.

9. How do I get my SNAP calculation?

When you apply for SNAP, or your case is recertified, you will get a notice telling you if your benefits were approved or denied. The notice should include information on the income and deductions used to calculate your SNAP benefits. The DTA notice should include a page that says: “How We Decided your SNAP Amount.” See sample notice in Appendix E.

If you did not receive the DTA notice – or you misplaced it – you can get a copy from DTA. You can log onto the “DTA Connect” at www.DTAConnect.gov and download a copy, or you can call the DTA Senior Assistance Office at 1-833-712-8027 and ask them to mail a copy.

Boosting SNAP with Medical Expenses

10. What kinds of medical expenses can I claim to boost my SNAP?

You can claim medical expenses to boost your SNAP if you are either age 60 or older, or you are disabled (any age). You can claim unreimbursed medical expenses that exceed $35 a month. If you have at least $35/month, DTA will calculate your SNAP using a “standard medical deduction” of $155 per month.

Example: Jane is a disabled veteran and receives a VA Pension of $1,000. She has $40/month in pharmacy co-pays and travel to the pharmacy. Jane qualifies for the $155 standard medical expense deduction in the SNAP math.

You can get a higher deduction above $155/month if you have actual medical expenses that exceed $190/month ($190 is the amount of the $35 threshold plus $155 standard deduction).

DTA will ask for proof of ongoing medical expenses or large one-time bills that you owe. You cannot claim medical expenses that are reimbursed by a third party.

You can claim health insurance co-pays and premiums, the costs of doctor and hospital visits, physical therapy, lab work, acupuncture, prescription medication, home health aides, and over-the-counter health supplies. You can also claim travel costs to and from your health care provider or pharmacy. Unlike public and subsidized housing, you can only claim medical expenses for the individuals in your SNAP household who are age 60+ or disabled. A flier with a sample of acceptable medical expenses for SNAP can be found at Appendix H.

IMPORTANT: You can also submit your rent computation worksheet to claim medical expenses for SNAP. Sample Rent Calculation Worksheets in are in Appendix C and D. See how to do this in Q.13 below.

11. How do I show DTA that I am disabled?

To qualify as disabled under the SNAP rules, you need to receive a benefit based on severe disability, such as Social Security Disability or SSI, MassHealth as disabled, or certain Veterans' and Railroad Retirement benefits. Unlike housing, DTA does not accept other proof of disability if you are not receiving a disability-based benefit.

12. When can I submit my medical expenses to DTA?

You can claim your medical expenses when you first apply, when your SNAP is recertified or any time. Here are the core ways to get DTA your proofs:

- Fax to: 617/887-8765,
- Mail to DTA Document Processing Center, P.O. Box 4406, Taunton, MA 02780;
- Log on to DTA Connect by downloading the mobile app or going to DTAConnect.com.
- Go in person to your local DTA office to drop them off.

Proof of medical expenses can include copies of bills, receipts (paid or unpaid), or any other proof that you have paid or owe a health care cost. You can also self-declare your travel costs to and from the doctor or pharmacy. This includes the costs of public transportation, the RIDE, taxi service, or DTA will calculate travel with the federal mileage rate if you use your own car.

13. Will DTA accept a copy of my “rent computation worksheet” for my medical expenses?

YES! DTA will accept your rent computation worksheet if it lists an amount they have verified for your medical expenses. See Appendix C and D for sample rent calculations.

Example: Sam Smith is age 70 and applies for SNAP. He sends DTA his rent computation worksheet which confirms that Sam has $5,000 in annual medical expenses, including his Medicare premium and other expenses. DTA can use that $5,000 amount, divided by 12 months, for $416/month of expenses. After subtracting the $35/month threshold, Sam gets a monthly deduction of $381 in the SNAP math.

Note: If your current monthly medical expenses are now higher than the rent computation worksheet, you can claim the higher expenses instead if it makes a difference in the SNAP math. You will need to give DTA proof of those expenses.

14. I have over-the-counter vitamins and other health care expenses my housing agency did not accept. Can I claim those for SNAP?

Yes. You can claim over-the-counter health expenses that were not used in your rent calculation. This could include vitamins, insulin, vision care, incontinence supplies, or other over-the-counter items recommended by your provider.

Example: Irene Jones is 70 years old and lives in public housing. She pays $200/month for health insurance, which she claims for her rent calculation. Each month Irene also pays $30 for vitamins, and $40 for over-the-counter drugs recommended by her doctor. Monthly, her total out-of-pocket, over-the-counter medical expenses are $70. If Irene sends DTA her rent computation worksheet plus her receipts for vitamins and over-the-counter drugs that are recurring monthly medical expenses, she can claim the $70 over the counter in addition to the $200/month claimed for public housing.

15. If I haven't claimed any medical expenses for public housing, what medical expenses can I claim for SNAP?

As long as you are age 60+ or are disabled, you can claim any unreimbursed medical and health-related expenses that you owe or are paying down. You can also claim medical expenses incurred before you applied for SNAP if you are currently still paying those off. To see DTA's brochure listing examples of allowable medical expenses, see Appendix H.

16. If my spouse or children live with me, will DTA accept the rent computation worksheet as proof of our medical expenses?

It depends. DTA only allows households to claim their public housing medical expenses for SNAP where ALL tenants are either persons with disabilities or are age 60+. That's because the housing rules allow dependents of an elder or person with disabilities to claim their medical expenses, but the housing agencies do not always separate out and identify the medical costs of each tenant. If your housing agency does separate medical expenses by each household member, you should send that rent calculation statement to DTA.

You can still send DTA proof of your medical expenses to boost your SNAP, just not the rent calculation worksheet.

Example: Ronald, 63, and Lorraine, 55, live together in public housing. (Lorraine is not disabled). Ronald and Lorraine jointly claim medical expenses for their public housing. Ronald can give DTA proof of his own medical expense for SNAP, but DTA will not accept the rent computation worksheet because Lorraine is neither elderly nor disabled.

Getting SNAP Calculations Fixed

17. What do I do if my SNAP benefits do not increase after I submit proof of my medical expenses?

If you are receiving the maximum SNAP benefit for your household, your SNAP will not increase by claiming more medical expenses. You are getting the full benefit amount.

If you are getting less than the full SNAP benefit and you send DTA proof of medical expenses or the rent computation worksheet, you can:

- Check your SNAP benefits by using the DTA Connect mobile app or online web portal at: DTAConnect.com
- Call the DTA's Senior Assistance Office at 833-712-8027 (for clients age 60 or older) to ask them if your SNAP benefits will increase.
- Call DTA's Assistance Line at 877-382-2363 (for clients under age 60).
- Go in person to a local DTA office and ask to meet with a worker about your SNAP case.

When you reach a SNAP worker, let them know that you submitted your rent computation worksheet or other proof of medical expenses. Ask the worker to confirm when your documents were received and if your SNAP will increase.

If the DTA worker says your SNAP benefits will not increase, ask for a reason why. You can also ask to speak to a DTA Supervisor. See Q 16 for more information about your rights in dealing with DTA.

18. If I disagree with the amount of my SNAP benefits or if DTA refuses to boost my SNAP, what can I do?

Be sure to confirm with DTA the status of your benefits first. If DTA refuses to boost your SNAP and you disagree with that decision, you can:

- Ask to speak with a Supervisor of the worker you spoke with.
- Call the DTA Ombudsman's Office at 617-348-5354.
- Request a fair hearing (file an appeal).
- Contact Legal Services.

Any third party that helps you needs your written consent to talk with DTA about your SNAP case information. Be sure to send that statement to DTA. It can be handwritten or a form. For a sample consent form, see Appendix F.

To Community Partners:

This letter is to notify you of a new DTA policy that can help public and subsidized housing renters more easily verify their medical expenses when applying for Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), and likely increase their benefits.

Under this new rule, households in which every member of the household is 60 years or older and/or a person with a disability may use their rent calculation as proof of medical expenses for SNAP benefits.

Beginning in July 2018, DTA began accepting the amount of medical expenses already verified by a local housing authority or regional housing agency as proof of medical expenses for SNAP. This verified medical expense amount can be found on a document that housing agencies call a “Rent Computation Worksheet”.

Tenants can request a Rent Computation Worksheet from their local housing authority or regional housing agency to submit to DTA via the following methods:

- the DTA Connect Mobile Application or online web portal (www.dtaconnect.com)
- fax to 617-887-8765
- mail to Document Processing Center, P.O. Box 4406, Taunton, MA 02780

If a SNAP household has questions about this policy or their SNAP case, they can contact the DTA Assistance Line at 877-382-2363. SNAP recipients age 60+ can contact the DTA Senior Assistance Office at 833-712-8027.

Note: SNAP households may also claim the costs of over-the-counter health care supplies to boost their SNAP. This can include “medicine chest” items, vitamins, eye glasses, incontinence supplies, and other health care items not allowed for the rent computation. If a SNAP household has proof of these costs, please urge them to include them in their submission to DTA.

Dear Housing Authority Directors,

The Department of Transitional Assistance (DTA) can now accept rent computation worksheets from Local Housing Authorities in order to verify medical expenses for some households when applying for the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP). Note, this is limited to situations where every member of the household is 60 years or older and/or a person with a disability.

See attached letter from DTA for more information.

DTA is hopeful that this will make it easier for households to claim medical expenses for their SNAP benefits. This policy change applies to all subsidized housing—public housing, Section 8, MRVP, DMH, AHVP, etc. so please share this information with other colleagues at your agency.

The only effect this DTA policy change should have on your agency is an increased request for rent computation worksheets, but we thought that you may appreciate a heads up.

Best Regards,

Amy Stitely

Associate Director

Division of Public Housing at DHCD

Appendix E: DTA SNAP Benefits Calculation Notice

Massachusetts Department of Transitional Assistance

Dear [REDACTED]

What DTA decided: The Department has reopened your SNAP case. Your benefits start on 09/08/2018 at $192.00 per month.

How we decided your benefit amount: Go to the pages at the end of this notice to see how we decided your benefit amount.

You will get your SNAP benefits on the 8th of each month.

The first SNAP benefit may be different from your regular monthly amount because it is for the period of 09/08/2018 to 10/07/2018.

Your certification period for SNAP benefits is from 09/08/2018 through 09/07/2019.

How We Decide Your SNAP Amount

We use your household's income and some expenses. In some cases, we count the income of a person in your household, even if that person is not getting benefits. Look below to see what we are counting for your household.

Appendix H: DTA Brochure on Claiming Medical Expenses for SNAP Benefits

Frequently Asked Questions

Who can claim medical expenses?

Anyone who is age 60 or older OR disabled and pays medical expenses of more than $35 per month.

What type of proof is needed?

We need receipts or bills to show your medical expenses. Expenses must be verified for DTA to give you credit. If you need help getting proof of your expenses, talk to DTA.

Which medical expenses can be claimed?

Certain medical costs can reduce your income in the SNAP calculation. This brochure tells you what medical expenses you can claim.

Do I have to verify medical expenses each time I recertify for SNAP benefits?

If your regular monthly medical expenses have not changed since you verified them, you do not have to verify them again at your recertification. However, if your medical expenses have changed you must tell DTA at recertification. DTA will tell you if the change must be verified.

Send copies of proofs to DTA's Document Processing Center by fax or mail. Write your name and Agency ID or SSN on each document.

Fax: (617) 887-8765 OR Mail: DTA Document Processing Center, P.O. Box 4406 Taunton, MA 02780-0420

SNAP rules give you the right to claim allowable medical expenses. Verified medical costs (over $35) will be deducted from your countable income so you may get more SNAP.

If your regular medical costs are between $35.01 and $190 each month, you may be eligible for the Standard Medical Deduction. Based on a household of one this deduction could add up to $30 per month to your SNAP benefits.

If your regular medical costs are more than $190 each month, you may be eligible for a higher deduction from your income.

Ask DTA if you have any questions about allowable medical expenses. DTA can also help you to get proof of your allowable medical costs.

A one-time medical cost, such as a bill for a hospital stay, hearing aid or wheelchair, may also be used for the medical expense deduction. Be sure to talk to DTA if you have a one-time medical expense.

Unreimbursed Medical Expense Costs

This deduction is granted only to elderly or disabled families (See the definition in Section 10.2 Elderly and Disable Family Deduction).

A range of unreimbursed medical expenses and services can be claimed, including, but not limited to the following, to the extent that the total medical expenses exceed 3 percent of annual income (the PHA must put definition in its ACOP. Use of IRS Medical Expenses, found in IRS publication 502, as guidance is acceptable):

- Services of health care professionals and health care facilities (doctors, nurses, practical nurses, therapists, hospitals, clinics, etc.);
- Laboratory fees, X-rays and diagnostic tests, costs for blood, and oxygen;
- Medical insurance premiums (including Medicare) and the insurance deductible;
- Prescription and non-prescription medicines (non-prescription medicines should be prescribed by a licensed medical professional);
- Transportation to/from treatment including the actual cost (e.g., bus fare) or if driving by car, a mileage rate based on IRS rules or other accepted standard;
- Medical care of a permanently institutionalized family member IF his/her income is included in annual income;
- Dental treatment including fees paid to the dentist for cleaning, fluoride treatments, sealants, x-rays; fillings, braces, extractions, dentures;
- Eyeglasses and contact lenses;
- Hearing aid and batteries, wheelchair, walker, scooter, artificial limbs;
- Attendant care or periodic attendant care;
- Payments on accumulated medical bills (that will be due in the year for which annual income is computed) for the services of physicians, nurses, dentists, opticians, mental health practitioners, chiropractors Hospitals, health maintenance organizations (HMO's), out-patient medical facilities, and clinics;
- Expenses paid to an HMO;
- Purchase or rental and upkeep of equipment (e.g., where there are tenant paid utilities, the additional utility costs to the tenant because of an oxygen machine);
- Skilled, semi-skilled and unskilled nursing services;
- An assistive animal and the upkeep and care of the animal; and
- Any other medically necessary service, apparatus or medication, as documented by third party verification.
